Exeter Cathedral from the North. Exeter Cathedral was built in 1112 by Bishop Warelwast on the site of the Benedictine Monastery of St. Peter. The plan of the Cathedral is cruciform, the length including the Lady Chapel is 408 feet, and the height of the towers 145 feet. The most striking part of the exterior is the West front, with its imposing facade of great beauty and interest.

I thought you would like to have one of Exeter Cathedral & this is rather a good view
